

Bull Roarer

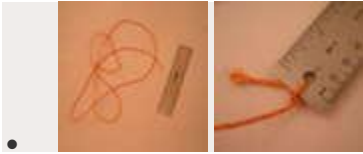

"Ever since prehistoric times the bull-roarer has been a symbol of fertility and evidence of them has been found in paleolithic sites. The sound of the bull-roarer is said to be the voice of an ancestor, a spirit, or a deity. This is very important because this plays a role in certain rites of passage in some areas of the world." (<http://www.music.vt.edu/musicdictionary/textb/Bull-roarer.html>)

Bull-Roarers are serious business to some folks; ever seen crocodile dundee?

make a "genuine sounding" bull-roarer out of a ruler and sturdy string.

Step 1 Tie string to ruler

Make it the kind of knot that doesn't come loose. I used a slipknot.